Forty-five Students Receive Diplomas at Abbot Academy

Andover Girls Prominent in Graduation Exercises—Baccalaureate Sermon Delivered by Rev. Raymond Calkins, and Commencement Address by Dr. Boyd Edwards

A class of forty-five girls received their diplomas at the 103rd annual commencement exercises at Abbot academy Tuesday morning. The address was made by Rev. Boyd Edwards, D.D., LL.D., who took as his subject: "Freedom." The principal, Miss Bertha Bailey, presented the diplomas to the girls, ten of whom were from Andover.

Commencement week, the one week in the year when everyone feels that the sun should be considerate enough to keep shining, started out with just the right kind of weather, but unfortunately Mark Twain's remark about New England weather still holds. Saturday evening the girls were able to enjoy the step singing on the steps of Abbot hall unchallenged by leaden skies, but Sunday did not offer such favorable conditions when the Baccalaureate sermon was delivered by Rev. Raymond Calkins, D.D., of Cambridge. Sunday evening Commencement vespers and an organ recital were held in Davis hall. Monday was in general given over to the alumnae, with the exception of a concert in the evening and the principal's reception to the graduating class in the afternoon.

Baccalaureate Sermon

Delivering the baccalaureate sermon to the graduating class of Abbot academy on Sunday, June 12, at the South church, Andover, Reverend Raymond Calkins, D.D., selected for his sermon the thirteenth verse of the fifth chapter of St. Matthew, reading: "Ye are the salt of the earth." These words were preached by Jesus to his twelve disciples during the Sermon on the Mount, prior to their going forth to begin their ministries. Thus, it was in reality a "commencement sermon."

A digest of Dr. Calkins' sermon follows:

Here, as elsewhere in his teachings, Christ reached the minds of the people through the use of simple parables referring to commodities with which they were familiar. The aforementioned verse describes perfectly the object of true, apostolic life. Salt is one of the most inconspicuous and unobtrusive articles of daily use. At the same time it is tremendously pungent, so much so that a pinch of it is enough to flavor a whole mass or substance.

According to Jesus, this is an exact analogy to a life devoted to his service. It is humble and inconspicuous, avoiding publicity. Yet, as portrayed by the work of the twelve disciples, it exerts a pervading influence over

Wrestling Show for Unemployed

The residents of Andover will have an opportunity to aid the unemployed and at the same time to witness some of the most famous wrestlers in the United States next Friday evening at the Crystal ballroom, Haverhill street, Shawsheen village, when the Lion's club presents its second wrestling show. The entire proceeds derived from this exhibition will be contributed to the Andover Emergency committee fund.

Carl Laemmle, the great Bohemian wrestler, and Nick Lutze, the Southern Californian grappler, will be the contestants in the feature bout. Lutze, although one of the most experienced wrestlers, will find it difficult to defeat Laemmle, whose specialty is upsetting champions.

Another contest which is sure to prove exciting will be that between Charlie Strack and J. Anderson. Strack, a former athlete at Colgate University, features the Washburnian style of wrestling.

Two bouts of more local interest will be the contest between Jack Ellis of Lawrence and Andover's mysterious Masked Marvel and the bout between two more name-concealers, the Andover Flash and the Andover Question Mark.

The final feature on the program will be an exhibition and talk by Jack Albright, a famous trainer, who will explain the art of wrestling by demonstrating the various holds.

All who attend are assured of an interesting and exciting evening, made doubly so by the realization that one is contributing to the unemployment fund. The Lion's club committee is composed of Henry Hopper, Charles T. Gilliard, Charles Scott, and Howell F. Shepard.

School Committee Special Meeting

The resignation of Mrs. Mary Barnes of the commercial department at the Punchard High school was announced at the meeting of the school committee last Tuesday evening. Mrs. Barnes is leaving town soon to reside in Arlington.

Two matters of importance were taken up at the meeting. The amendments to the by-laws proposed at a previous meeting by members Dr. Stowers and Doherty stating in effect that the appointments by the board should be by ballot were taken up and defeated by a tie vote, since a two-thirds vote is required in such cases. The reasons advanced for the proposed amendment follow: a clearer expression of the actual feeling of the individual members of the committee would be received if all employees were elected by ballot; and all elections should be uniform, either by ballot or voice. Those who were against the proposed amendments gave as reasons: the selection of the teachers should be in the hands of the superintendent with the assistance of the committee on teachers; a secret vote would not alter the situation but would be a procedure that would take more time; and the members should voice their opinion in open meeting and if the elections were by secret ballot, every member of the committee would be continually asked by the candidates to cast his vote in their favor. After a lengthy discussion the question was put to vote by ballot and defeated.

The matter of transportation was also taken up but no definite decision was reached. Dr. Stowers gave several reasons why the children of the junior and senior high schools should not be transported. A motion was offered that the high school children from Shawsheen be not transported in the winter months. It was estimated that this would save $500. The motion was however lost. Another motion that next year there should be no transportation for junior and senior high school children who live within a mile and a half of school was not seconded. The whole matter was referred to a special meeting to take place before the fall meeting.

The salaries of the bus drivers were also discussed. This question will be investigated and a report made at the sepcial meeting.

A few miscellaneous matters were considered. Mr. Doherty reported that the old power mower had been sold to Edward Hall for twenty dollars. Other bids were W. R. Hill, $15 and Chester Holland, $17. The books listed at the last meeting were adopted. John Campbell was appointed to the position of truant officer at a salary of $100 on the recommendation of the superintendent. The next meeting will be on the 27th.

Free Church Food Sale Next Friday

On Friday afternoon, June 24, a food sale will be held on the Free church lawn from 2 to 6. The committee, which is composed of Mrs. George A. Rowe, Mrs. Wallace Rogers, and Mrs. Frank Buttrick, hopes for a good attendance since the sale is for a very worthy cause.

Historical League to Meet June 25

Members of the Andover Historical society will be interested to learn that the annual meeting of the Bay State Historical League will be held with the Danvers Historical society Saturday afternoon, June 25 at two o'clock. An opportunity will be given to visit many historic places in Danvers. Automobiles will be provided. Each society is requested to send delegates, and the Andover society hopes that its members may attend. A pleasant time is anticipated. The Andover society will hold its annual meeting in October.

Loan Negotiated by Town Treasurer

On Monday, June 13, Thaxter Eaton, town treasurer, negotiated with the Merchants' National Bank of Boston for a loan of $100,000. This loan bears an interest rate of 2.84 per cent, and matures on the third of November. The remaining bids offered were as follows:

Day Trust, 2.94 per cent; Second National Bank, 3.07 per cent; Faxon, Gade and Company, 3.03 per cent, and Jackson and Curtis Company, 3.17 per cent.

Many Men to Go to Work Monday; Teachers Donate

Campaign for Funds Makes Splendid Start—Academy Faculty Contributes $1400—Public School Teachers Give Two Weeks Pay

Fifty men will be put to work for the town Monday morning as a result of the campaign for funds waged by the Andover Emergency committee. Dr. Claude M. Fuess reported at the meeting Tuesday evening that enough money had been pledged for work to start immediately, but because of the time involved in notifying the men and in taking care of the other details, the day for the beginning of the work was put off. The funds were made available through a contribution from the town employees' pays, pledges from the Phillips academy faculty, and various other donations.

In making his report, Dr. Fuess, who with Frederick H. Jones, is in charge of the raising of funds, mentioned that the defunct Andover Chamber of Commerce has $1200 to its credit in the bank. He stated that he hoped that this money might be turned over to the Emergency committee. With this in mind, he had mentioned the matter to Horace M. Poynter, the last president of the organization, and Mr. Poynter has sent out cards to the Chamber members asking for their opinion on the disposition of the funds. The faculty of Phillips academy has contributed or pledged $1400, Dr. Fuess reported. The committee already has $1250 in the bank and $2600 in pledges. In addition the Red Cross has contributed $1000 to defray expenses.

Town Treasurer Thaxter Eaton reported that a sum of $202 had been realized from this week's deductions in the town payroll. The employees are in general planning to donate their two weeks' pay through a period of from 25 to 30 weeks. This week's deductions were considerably higher than the average since it included some contributions from officials who receive monthly salaries. The average weekly total will be about $170. Mr. Eaton has not yet seen all the employees, but most of them have signed an agreement to contribute their two weeks' pay. The agreement is as follows: "Wishing to contribute to the fund being raised by the Emergency Relief committee, I authorize the Town Treasurer to deduct two weeks' pay, for services rendered to the Town of Andover, as follows—." The employee is allowed to determine his own method of contributing the two weeks' pay. According ot Mr. Eaton, all the fire and police department, twenty-one members of the Board of Public Works, three workers in the tree department, two Town Hall clerks, the Town Accountant, the janitor of the town hall, the Board of Health nurse, the library janitor, and several other employees have signed the agreement. The library staff has made voluntary individual contributions directly to the committee.

Teachers Donate Pays

Wednesday afternoon the local school teachers voted to donate two weeks' pay to the committee. Their contributions will start in September and will last through the school year. A committee of three from the Andover Teachers' association met with the emergency committee before the regular meeting Tuesday evening to discuss the present unemployment situation, and also to find out what part the teachers could play in the drive. Miss Putnam revealed that she had received a communication saying that it was expected that the teachers would submit to a voluntary cut of ten percent in their salaries. The committee however disclaimed any knowledge of such a suggestion, and the conference ended amicably with the teachers stating that they would report back to the association. The general feeling at the time seemed to be that the teachers would agree to donate something to the fund as a voluntary contribution.

Stowe Graduation Thursday Afternoon

A class of nearly 120 will be graduated from Stowe Junior High School next Thursday afternoon at 3.30 in the Town Hall. This year the program will be somewhat different from that of former years, because this is the Washington bicentennial year. One of the features will be a George Washington cantata.

Teachers Invited to Conference

An Institute of International Relations with a splendid faculty of speakers from England and from American colleges and universities, to be held at Wellesley college from June 28 to July 2, is open to Andover and Lawrence teachers and others who can attend. The purpose of the Institute, to discuss America's position in world affairs, armaments and national security, reparations, arbitration between nations, and what we should teach in schools and colleges about world affairs, will be achieved through classes and round table discussions. Among the leaders are Leyton Richards of Birmingham, England; Sidney B. Fay, Professor of History at Harvard; President Hamilton Holt of Rollins College; Harry D. Gideonse of the University of Chicago; Harold E. B. Speight of Dartmouth; Earle Winslow of Tufts college; and others. A charge of thirty-five dollars will include registration, board, and lodging at Wellesley college for the ten days, also all the recreational privileges of the college campus. Information can be obtained from the American Friends Service committee, 120 Boylston street, Boston, or from Theodore K. Noss, Williams Hall on Phillips street, Andover.

Abbot Alumnae Association Honors Retiring Teachers

Miss Kelsey and Miss Mason Presented with a Silver Coffee Set at Annual Meeting Held Monday — Committees Appointed for Coming Year

The most important feature of Alumnae Day, observed Monday at Abbot academy, was the honoring in various ways of the two retiring members of the faculty, Miss Katherine R. Kelsey and Miss Nellie M. Mason, known and loved by successive groups of students for many years.

Because many of the younger alumnae are tied by college work or jobs and could only come for the week-end, several of the classes held their reunions on Saturday, but most of them concentrated their attention on Monday.

The annual meeting of the Alumnae association was held in Abbot hall as usual at eleven o'clock, with Mrs. Annie Smart Angus, of Andover, in the chair. The reports of officers and committees were read and the election of officers and other routine business followed. The necrology for the year, referred to by the secretary, contains forty-one names, beginning with those of Mrs. Martha Tufts Bandell, of Walpole, N. H., one hundred years old, who had been at the head of the alumnae list for some years, and her classmate of 1850, Mrs. Elizabeth Peck Stanger, of Philadelphia.

A report that was awaited with great interest was that of the committee in charge of the Alumnae Income Fund project, which was initiated at the meeting last June for the purpose of helping the school both directly, by an annual gift of money, and indirectly, by taking over alumnae expenses which have previously been borne by the school. Mrs. Enid Baush Patterson, of Newton, chairman, reviewed the aims and the work of the committee, and Miss Frances Flagg, of Andover, read the report of the Fund secretary, announcing the amount received for subscriptions as just over one thousand dollars. Half of this sum is designated to go toward a music scholarship in memory of Mrs. Edith Dewey Jones, a former president.

Greetings and reports from Abbot clubs in different centers, mostly by presidents and former presidents, followed, including Boston, Old Colony (southeastern New England) New York, Chicago, and Western Maine.

Miss Bailey spoke of events of the school year, mentioning the faculty round table conferences, with occasional speakers from the educational world, which have been held at intervals during the past two years. Special reference was made to honors received by recent graduates, including the Summa Cum Laude given to Miss Lucy Sanborn, of Andover, at Bryn Mawr. Miss Bailey invited attention also to the campus gifts of last June, the sun-dial presented by the class of 1886 and the fountain in the edge of the woods, given in memory of Mrs. Fanny Fletcher Parker, 1872, by her three Abbot alumnae daughters.

Committees Appointed

Announcement was made by the president of committees for the coming year, and appreciation was expressed for the efficient work of those in charge of the preparations for Alumnae Day. The Housing committee consisted of Mrs. Nellie Flint Rand, the Luncheon committee of Mrs. Jean David Blunt, Mrs. Frances Moses Cheever, Miss Katharine Clay, Miss Frances Flagg and the Decorating committee of Miss Mary Byers Smith, Miss Alice C. Jenkins and Miss Esther Smith.

The officers elected for 1932-34 follow: President, Mrs. Annie Smart Angus; vice-presidents, Miss Eugenia Parker, Miss Winona K. Algie, Mrs. Marion Towle Sturr-

Punchard Plans Annual Graduation

The seniors of the local high school are spending their last week at Punchard. The commencement festivities start this evening when three one-act plays will be presented in Punchard hall, starting at 8.15 o'clock. The plays are "Bumble Puppy," "The Grill," and "Thank You, Doctor." Mervin E. Stevens is in charge of the productions.

The casts include Jack Twigg, Walter Pearson, Charles Armitage, Frederick Bume, Ruth Ward, Gertrude Taylor, Lincoln Stack, Mildred Dennison and Catherine Green.

Wednesday afternoon the annual Class Day exercises will be held on the Playstead if weather permits. The program opening is scheduled for four o'clock.

The graduation will as usual be held in the Town Hall starting at eight o'clock Thursday evening.

Garden Club Notes

The following coming events in neighboring towns are of interest to Garden and Home lovers:

Thursday, June 23, six historical houses and gardens in old North Andover will be open to the public from two to six p.m. If rainy, the following day. Tickets, at $1.00 may be obtained from Miss Agnes Brooks, or at the Old Berry House Tea Room, both in North Andover.

Saturday, June 25, several gardens in Newburyport, Newbury and West Newbury will be open to the public, for a small fee, from three to seven p.m. If rainy, the 28th. Apply to Ellen Graves, Newburyport, for lists, or Mrs. Edward H. Little, 6 Toppans Lane, secretary of Newburyport Garden club.

The Annual Iris Show in Horticultural hall proved a very lovely and successful affair. Over fifty varieties of iris were shown in some exhibits. The first prize went to Mrs. Nesmith Y. Lowell. This exhibit from her Fairmount gardens was undisputedly outstanding. Long will the Andover club remember Mrs. Maurice Curran's most gracious compliment, in her charming entry in the name of the Andover Garden club. Particularly lovely in design, with its background of a Debois fence and evergreens—a delightful pool with very attractive grouping of iris and lilies-of-the-valley—this garden made all who viewed it feel indeed grateful to Mrs. Curran.

Phillips Academy Conducts Commencement This Morning

Many Prizes at Annual Exercises—Commencement Week Replete with Varied Events, Including Musicales, Speaking Contests, and Alumni Reunions

The annual commencement exercises were held at Phillips academy this morning with 181 seniors receiving diplomas. Two Andover boys, Robert Cades Holland and Claxton Monro, Jr., were among the graduates, while another local boy, William George Dwyer received the John P. Hopkins prize of $300 for having a record of perfect attendance for four consecutive years. Frank K. Wallace, Richard W. Schreiber, and Ernest A. Johnson, Jr. also local boys, received honorable mention.

Outstanding in the prize presentations was the award of the Faculty Prize of $50 to the senior who has maintained the highest average in scholarship. Ralph Lazzaro of Wakefield was the winner of this prize.

Prior to the actual start of the commencement programs the initiation service to the Honorary Scholarship Society, Cum Laude, the Phi Beta Kappa of Preparatory schools, was conducted with Professor Irving Babbitt, A.M., of Harvard University, making the address.

Wednesday's Contests

The Potter Prize Speaking and the C. F. Cutter prize contest for the playing of orchestral instruments were held at George Washington hall Wednesday evening. Henry Schroder Robinson of Montclair, N. J., speaking on "Roads," received the first award of thirty dollars in the speaking contest, with Ring Wilmer Lardner, Jr., of Easthampton, L. I., N. Y., being adjudged the winner of the second prize of twenty dollars. In the musical contest Herbert Victor Kibrick of Brockton, Emil Joseph Ganem of Methuen and Ralph Lazzaro of Wakefield received prizes of twenty-five, twenty and fifteen dollars respectively.

The judges in the Potter Prize Speaking were Frederic N. Chandler, Thaxter Eaton and Arthur Sweeney. It is interesting to note that Mr. Eaton was a winner in this contest when it was first held in 1904.

The judges in the C. F. Cutter prize contest were: Miss Helen Eaton, Miss Susan B. Ripley, Henry P. Kelley, and Dirk van der Stucken. Dr. Claude M. Fuess presided.

The program for the Potter Prize Speaking follows:

Legion Contributes Poppy Day Receipts

Tuesday evening the Andover post 8, American Legion voted to contribute 50 percent of the receipts of the poppy day held May 28 to the Emergency committee fund for the unemployed. At the same meeting, Arthur S. Coleman, Percy J. Dole, and Herman Hilton were selected as delegates to the county council meeting to be held in Haverhill Sunday at the Haverhill post farm. A group will leave the rooms at ten o'clock to attend the dinner and meeting and another group will leave at 2.30 to attend the business meeting only.

County Commander Edward Perkins of Haverhill attended Tuesday night's meeting of the local post.

The Legion bugle and drum corps will enter competitions with musicians from other posts during the month of July. On July 4 they will have a contest with the Stoneham bugle and drum corps; July 8, North Andover; July 23, Hampton Beach; and July 25, Lowell.

Alumni Reunion on Next Friday

The plans for the annual banquet and reunion of the Punchard Alumni were presented by William V. Emmons, chairman of the banquet committee, at the meeting of the executive committee in Goldsmith hall, Punchard high school, recently.

The class of 1927 will supervise this year's banquet, which will take place next Friday. Assisting Mr. Emmons, who is treasurer of the association, are three members of his class: Irving J. Whitcomb, Miss Annetta Anderson and Donald C. Bassett. In addition, three members of the alumni executive committee, President J. Ashley Barnes '23, Secretary Miss Caroline F. Reed '26, and First Vice-President Geoffrey B. Nicoll '21, will also act on the banquet committee.

Leo F. Daley '18, will be the toastmaster of the evening, while Rev. A. Graham Baldwin, instructor at Phillips academy, will speak. Prayer will be offered by Rev. Frederick B. Noss, pastor of the South church. Rev. Charles W. Henry, rector of Christ church and president of the Board of Trustees, Nathan C. Hamblin, principal of Punchard, and J. Ashley Barnes '23, will also be present. The latter will deliver the address of welcome.

Joseph Doherty '27, is chairman of the reception committee, composed of several members of his class.

Miss Eleanor Downs '24 is chairman of the decorations committee. Walden Bassett '24 and Mrs. Walden Bassett '25, are the other two members. They will cooperate with the senior class, which, as usual, will be the guest of the alumni at the banquet.

The executive committee is staging an active drive for greater membership. It expects each member to secure others, together with their dues.

Marriage

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Sylvea Bull Shapleigh of Andover to Mortimer Brewster Smith, on Saturday, June 11, at West Lebanon, Maine.

Awards Made at Sunday School

At the annual commencement exercises held at Christ church Sunday morning various awards were made by the rector, Charles W. Henry. John Henry Long, Jr., Doris Evelyn Porter and Kerr Alexander Sparks, Jr., received certificates for perfect attendance for three years.

Certificates of promotion were given to the following who go from the kindergarten to the primary department: Bessie Dantos, Emmanuel Gigis, Edythe Pullan, Robert Ross, John Thompson, Charles Valentine, Peter Smith, Harvey Sprague, Irene McKee, Georgianna Frederick, John McGrath, Robert Batcheller, Dorothy Eccles and Helen Gigis.

The following children who go from the primary department to the fourth grade received Bibles: Lawrence Eccles, Dorothy Eccles, Marion Bend, Edward Valentine, Gordon Cannon, Barbara Pullan, Helen Gahm, Madeleine Grout, Robert Batcheller, Margaret Little, Elwin Leacock and Barbara Porter.

Attractive certificates were awarded to the following children for perfect attendance during the year: John Nicoll, John Long, Jr., Clifford McKee, Doris Evelyn Porter, Constance Swenson, Ruth Porter, Reginald Wallace, James McKee, Alton Porter, Kerr Sparks, Jr., Mary Ward, Virginia Batcheller and Barbara Smith.

The following are on the honor role for missing only once in three years: June Swenson, David McKee and Hugh McKee.

The Christ church school and the schools of West Parish, Shawsheen and St. Paul's of North Andover will enjoy their annual picnic tomorrow at Pleasant pond, Wenham. A fine program of games, boating, and swimming has been arranged. Jerome W. Cross has kindly consented to provide transportation. The picnic will be held unless it rains heavily.

Forty-five Recieve Diplomas at Abbot

those with whom it comes into contact. By the sheer quality of its power to impart a touch of the divine, it is able to make the world a little better place in which to live.

The early Christians performed a truly miraculous task. Although they were but a handful of unknown, unschooled men and women, they wholly changed the world in which they lived. Through simple piety and austere morality, they purified family life, and made social relations broad and tolerant. By being the "salt of the earth," they replaced pessimism with the hope and assurance of Christianity.

This is precisely the work of modern disciples. They will go about unheralded and unnoticed. But through their virtue, their saltiness, they will prevent the social order of which they form a part, from degenerating into something flat, lifeless, and unwholesome. In other words, they will act as that great necessity of life, "salt."

As we turn back through the pages of history, we find that Plato called salt "the gift of the gods," while Homer spoke of it as "divine." The trade routes of the ancient world were developed for the transportation of salt. Today, the rock salt industries of Wales and India are among the most important industries in the world. Yes, salt is inconspicuous, but vitally important!

Likewise are the simple equivalents of saltiness in character. Referring back to work of Christ, it becomes evident that he instigated no great political reform. He accomplished a much greater task with the gradual instilling of a new spirit into the world. Righteousness and peace replaced ancient barbarities and wrongs. To quote from a great historian: "Any real progress which the world has made has been made by men and women who have possessed neither genius nor prominence, but who have possessed the virtue of the regenerating power of a truly consecrated life."

You are graduating from your school and will go into new associations, new communities. You are really devoted to Christian ideals. In a word, you are a bit of salt. Just as salt is preservative, so you, through the saltiness of the spirit of Jesus, can keep things from becoming corrupt in the little world in which you live.

As I have said, salt has a pervading quality. And just so the disciples of Christ have vitality which others lack. Their ideas are vigorous, fresh and adventurous. They are creative characters in the midst of the stagnant and dull. They are just the salt of the earth.

It is possible for every person in this world to be a bit of Christ's divine salt of the earth. I ask that you qualify as such, so as to be a penetrating influence in this world, helping it to higher and nobler things. You need not be conspicuous nor prominent. You can be very unobtrusive. But if you have the salt of the spirit of Jesus in you, wherever you go, or whatever you are, you will be a little of this world's glory, helping it toward greater, nobler heights.

Awards Made Monday

At the morning chapel exercises on Monday, June 14, Miss Bertha Bailey announced the honors achieved by various members of the school. As a result of the year's competition between the Gargoyles and the Griffins, Miss Bailey gave the shield to the captain of the Griffins, Cynthia James, and made known that the Griffins had won 84 points to the Gargoyles 73. Athletic A's were given to the following girls for having won 250 points: Madoline Hartwell, Ruth Stott, Ruth Tyler, Betty Weaver and Julia Wilhelmi. Chevrons (which are given for each forty points over 250) were awarded to Dorothy Rockwell, Helen Allen, Ann Cole, Virginia Brown, Joyce Henry and Constance Hoag.

Miss Bailey read the list of names of girls to whom an honor bonus of merits had been given by the merit committee as a reward for conspicuous helpfulness in maintaining school spirit. The students are: Helen Allen, Elizabeth Bigler, Elizabeth Boyce, Virginia Brown, Jane Burnham, Mary Elizabeth Burnham, Pauline Burtt, Ann Cole, Helen Cutler, Lucy Drummond, Lena Hamilton, Miye Hirooka, Constance Hoag, Jean Hume, Frances McGarry, Elizabeth Palmer, Clara Shaw, Ruth Stott, Georgia Thomson, Mariatta Tower, Ruth Tyler, Elizabeth Vincent, Priscilla Donnell, Harriet Wright, Barbara Reinhart, Molly Savage.

To girls who have proved themselves to be good proctors Miss Bailey announced that a proctor bonus had been awarded: Doris Marchand, Constance Zinn, Susan Johnstone, Jane Burnham, Dorothy Richardson, Miye Hirooka, Elizabeth Sage.

The school blazer, the highest school athletic honor, given to girls who have won at least four hundred and fifty points, and who have successfully maintained excellent school spirit, good scholarship and posture, was given by Miss Bailey to Pauline Burtt, Elizabeth Boyce, Virginia Brown, Joyce Henry, Constance Hoag, Susan Johnstone and Georgia Thomson.

At the end of the chapel exercises, the new members of the Cum Laude society were formally inducted by Miss Kelsey and Miss Bailey. Constance Hoag, Elizabeth Palmer, Dorothy Rockwell and Atossa Welles are now members of the Abbot chapter of the society, instituted in the school in 1926, which purpose is to cultivate in secondary schools high scholarship, and reward the conscious effort of students to reach high scholarship.

The "Honor A" is the highest honor awarded by the school. It is given to those students who have taken part with good spirit in athletics, who have worked faithfully and have maintained a good scholastic average, and who have shown qualities of character and of leadership which promise to make them in later years worthy representatives of Abbot academy. "Honor A's" are awarded to students by the combined vote of the Representative Committee of Student Council and of the Faculty. The girls who received them for the year 1931-32 are: Helen Allen, Elizabeth Bigler, Virginia Brown, Lucy Drummond, Constance Hoag, Elizabeth Palmer and Ruth Tyler. The new president of the "A" society is Lena Hamilton, Lewiston, Maine, and the secretary-treasurer is Helen Rice of Marlboro, Mass.

Tree Planting

Tuesday morning presented no better weather conditions than the previous day, but weather can never stop a graduation. The girls started their program at 10.30 with the tree exercises by the academic senior class. Miss Lucy Holley Drummond, president of the class of 1932, and Miss Barbara Robbins Worth, president of the class of 1933 were the chief figures in this ceremony. The tree song, with words by Phyllis Frederick, was sung following the transfer of the spad. The verse was as follows:

Just as this lovely tree
Can ne'er unlovely be
Within the charmed circle of this place,
Our love and memory
O Abbot dear, of thee
We'll hold forever in our fond embrace
And may we, year by year—
Our lives first rooted here—
Prove worthy of this circle's boundless grace.

Next came the ivy planting by the college preparatory class, with the transfer of the trowel ceremony having as its leading figures Miss Ruth Howe Tyler, 1932, and Miss Mariatta Tower, 1933.

At the conclusion of the tree exercises the faculty and the students marched down School street to the South church where the commencement exercises began at eleven o'clock. The usual effectiveness of the School street march was missing because the girls had to wear coats, but once inside the church the coats were discarded and the procession went down the aisles with the girls looking very impressive in their white dresses. Maria Pillsbury Hawkes, 1907, acted as marshal and Gwendolyn Bloomfield Tillson, 1922, as assistant marshal.

Graduation Program

Honorable Marcus Morton, president of the Board of Trustees, presided at the graduation exercises, the program of which follws:

Graduating Class

The forty-five graduates are as follows: Helen S. Allen, Andover; Elizabeth May Boyce, Andover; Pauline H. Burtt, Andover; Joyce C. Henry, Andover; Betty Holihan, Andover; Marie Holihan, Andover; Hilda Lynde, Andover; Clare M. O'Connell, Andover; Dorothy Reinhart, Andover; Katharine B. Roth, Andover; Harriet Bolton, North Andover; Dorothy A. Richardson, Billerica; Louise Hope Porter, Beverly; Ruth H. Tyler, Wakefield; Constance Hoag, Boston; Harriet P. Wright, Shrewsbury; Isabel K. Arms, Worcester; Mary Hyde, Ware; Helen Mildred Cutler, Wollaston; Florence Dunbar, Pittsfield; Leonore S. Hezlitt, Winchendon; Katharine Cook, New Bedford; Dorothy E. Moore, Berlin, N. H.; Frances Harvey, Hanover, N. H.; Virginia Brown, Keene, N. H.; Jean F. Hume, Hartford, Conn.; Georgia Thomson, New Britain, Conn.; Susan Johnstone, Putnam, Conn.; Virginia F. Lawton, Torrington, Conn.; Elizabeth C. Piper, West Hartford, Conn.; Eunice Randall, West Hartford, Conn.; Atossa F. Welles, Albany, N. Y.; Lucy H. Drummond, Bronxville, N. Y.; Cynthia W. James, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Elizabeth Hope Lathrop, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Mary Abbie Hollands, Hornell, N. Y.; Phyllis Frederick, Greenlawn, L. I., N. Y.; Carol Pike, Long Island, N. Y.; Elizabeth R. Bigler, Newburgh N. Y.; Dorothy Rockwell, New York City; Elizabeth Ann Palmer, Scarsdale, N. Y.; Mary E. Thompson, Glen Ridge, N. J.; Elizabeth Vincent, Shelby, Mich.; Julia Wilhelmi, Duluth, Minn., and Madoline Hartwell, Colorado Springs, Colo.

Tribute to Teachers

Miss Ellen F. Pendleton, president of Wellesley college, presided at the exercises in the absence of Judge Morton, president of the Board of Trustees who was detained by the funeral of Judge Sanderson. She spoke as follows:

This 103rd anniversary of Abbot academy is marked by the retirement of two members of the faculty who have served this academy for many years. The gift of their service is marked by an unstinted devotion. Its memory is as enduring as it is immeasurable. Were the president of the board here, I am sure that he would pay a longer tribute to Miss Kelsey and Miss Mason. I can only say this word, not in my official capacity, but as a friend of both Miss Kelsey and Miss Mason.

Women's colleges, as also schools for girls, are often charged with a cloistered life which seems to many people too artificial to be normal and healthful. We who serve them know that this is not the case; that many times we bring more distinguished men than our brother institutions bring distinguished women, to appraise their important anniversaries and occasions, and today is no exception. I have the honor to present to you as orator of the occasion, the Reverend Boyd Edwards, Master of Mercersburg academy.

Commencement Address

Dr. Edwards' address follows:

President Pendleton, Miss Bailey, members of the faculty, and members of Abbot '32: If somebody had told me, when I was a Phillips boy, that I should someday enjoy the privilege of speaking at an Abbot academy commencement, I should have conceded immediately that it was a privilege, but I should have shrunk and shriveled at the idea of enjoying it. My occasional glimpses of the fem. sems. in 1895 made me feel, speaking now with a keen historical conscience, that they were a sort of combination of a flock of fairies, a swarm of saints and a group of angels. I have had occasion to visit the academy at various times gone by, and have had such a happy time there as speaker, and have been made so grateful to Miss Bailey and her associates for what they did for a cousin of mine, that that feeling of fear has gone, but that sense of awe at certain symptoms of beauty still resident in the academy remains. I cannot tell, except where the white dresses are, where the roses leave off and the girls begin.

So it is in memory of that reverend respect that I had for Abbot academy girls when I was a Phillips boy, and in memory of the happy and understanding contacts with the school and my very cordial welcomes there, that I speak this morning.

I think that the parents and friends of young people are entitled to hear from outsiders on occasions like this something of the problems and the promises which we encounter in the young people of today. And perhaps, as I come from a boys' school, I may be regarded as speaking without any particular bias from a feminist point of view. I am going to give you a certain emphasis on that point by a series of parables, I think they might be called. They are not fables; they are true. I speak of the answers which some of these youngsters make to questions which are put to them, both boys and girls. There is the youngster who was asked to define an oyster, and he said, "An oyster is a fish that is built like a nut." Neither Huxley nor David Starr Jordan could have improved on that.

A youngster who was asked to define a vacuum, said, "It is nothing shut up in a box."

A youngster asked to define Algebra, said, "It is a kind of mathematics where you don't know what you are talking about."

Asked to define a mugwump, the answer came, "A mugwump is a bird that sits on a fence, with his mug on one side and his wump on the other."

That is the kind of brains we are dealing with, when they are interested. The difficulty arises because the sequence and significance get mixed.

A boy was asked—I will lay this on the boy—what he knew about John Milton. He said, "John Milton was a poet who married a woman with a terrible temper, and he wrote Paradise Lost. His wife died, and he wrote Paradise Regained." The facts are all right, but the sqeuence and significance are mixed.

So also the youngster—this also I guess I better lay on the boy—was asked why the Turks make such good soldiers, and his answer was, "The Turks make such good soldiers because a Turk has many wives, and a man that has many wives is not as afraid to die as a man who has only one."

Then there is the question of spelling. When the youngster was asked what was notable about Queen Victoria, he said she was the only Queen who ever sat on a thorn for sixty-eight years. That was purely a misspelling. He did not realize how thorny a throne may be.

A boy was a member of a class which was asked to write a description of a baseball game. That was the theme for that English composition class. They had forty-five minutes for the period. The teacher watched him sitting with his head in his hand looking out the window until forty minutes had gone by, and then she was alarmed, and she went over and said, "You will have to get busy and get something done, or the time will be up and you won't have anything to show for it." He said, "Oh, I will have something." So she noticed particularly when his theme came in what he had written as a description of a baseball game, and this was what he had written: "Rain. No game."

I think you will believe me when I say that I do not tell these stories simply because they are funny, because they are so much more than funny, especially since they reveal certain characteristics of the youthful mind with which we have to deal. It shows an artistic cleverness that is deserving of being classic, yet it is a classic cleverness in evasion; it is a dodge—a very clever dodge, which is one of the things America needs to outgrow.

And so I would like to penetrate a little more into the vestibule of what I want to say by telling this true definition which a youngster gave of philosophy. "Philosophy," he said, "is going down into a cellar at midnight without a light, to look for a black cat that is not there."

There is a great deal of time being spent in America, going down into cellars without a light, to look for a black cat that is not there.

And yet, as a friend of youth who believes more in this generation than my own generation gave one a right to believe in the youth of that day, and speaking as one who seeks with all his heart to understand and accept their best, I want to say just a word in the friendliest fashion about one of those searches for a black cat that is not there. I want you to think, my dear young friends, about Liberty.

If any one of you girls ever flew a kite, you will remember that after you got that kite well up into the wind and held the cord between your fingers until your fingers began to be creased and pained, maybe, it was almost as if you heard the kite say, "Let me go. I want to be free." Now, a kite loose is not free. The cord which holds the kite up into the wind is the thing that makes it possible for the kite to have sustained elevation. A kite loose is simply loose, not free.

When Lady Asquith published her memoirs we were all very eager to read them. There were two wonderful factors in them: First, her tribute to her sister Laura, a very beautiful revelation of the finest side of Lady Asquith's nature; and the other was the story of her girlhood, of the occasion when, with the freedom that was always characteristic of her life, and is still characteristic of her life, she was riding one day across the wide moors of her father's estate, and came to a bridge arch and found a tramp sitting there. She dismounted from her pony, and shared her luncheon with this tramp and talked with him, and after she had mounted her pony, before she rode away she said to him, "How do you decide which way to go?" That is an interesting question to ask a tramp, because his answer may give us the philosophy that makes a tramp. He said, "Well, I always go with the wind to my back."

When a kite has the wind at its back, it is a goner; its end is to stop in a swamp. A kite with the wind at its back is not free; it is only loose and a slave of the wind.

An airplane is possible because it can develop a speed which makes it possible for it to run away from a following wind and make with its own wind an opposition in the air which makes a leverage for its wings. An airplane with the wind at its back, and only that, goes into a tailspin, because it is not free, just loose.

Now, there is such a thing as yachting and yacht races possible. There is such a thing as sailing vessels in all the harbors and all of the seven seas, because you can build a boat with such lines, and ballast it with such weight so nicely distributed, and then equip it with sails and a rudder in such a fashion that you can free it from dependence upon following winds. It goes across the wind and into the wind, and if you are in a sailing boat and a gale comes up you put your anchor down and face the wind. It is the only safe posture in a gale. You must ride it out with your nose into the wind.

Now, sustained and directed flight is possible for an airplane because it has motor power enough to make the adverse wind its speed creates a leverage which lifts and holds it up. The same thing is true of a sailing boat. Directed flight for a yacht is possible only because of an equipment which frees the boat from dependence upon following winds. A boat which has only a following wind is not free; it is the slave of that wind, or the tide.

Now, that is worth thinking about, when you have the wisdom of it. Sustained flight is possible for you in proportion as you have a cord, we will say, loyalty, affection, conviction, a job, a tie, a friendship, that holds you up against the winds. It does not make any difference whether those winds originate in your own appetites or environment, or out of that which makes the setting and current of your time—a sustained and elevated flight is only possible to those who have sufficient moral energy so that they go against the adverse winds and make them serve them. There isn't any other way to be free. So unless one has such an equipment of purposes as corresponds to a rudder on his life, he cannot get away from dependence upon following winds and favorable tides. He is a slave to his environment.

This is very adverse to a current philosophy that says, "I am at the moment what I most particularly desire to be, whether the desire arises away down in me, or away up in me." I hate it. You will, after you have lived through the experiences that reveal life.

Now, if you are going to think about making friends of adverse winds and setting yourselves free of following winds, if you are going to get away from the philosophy of the tramp and the derelict, you cannot live with the wind at your back; it will make a tramp or a derelict out of you. And in order that you may think a little bit about what kinds of winds blow across this campus of ours in school and college, I am going to mention four, by way of poetic symbolism.

First is the east wind, our wind today, misty, chilly, depressing, cloudy. It is the token of ignorance.

Then there is the south wind, that is soft and enervating, and depressing too. It is the token of indulgence and of selfishness.

There is the north wind, that is cold and stern, which is the token of imperative moral standards that human beings on a level above the brutes accept because they are human and know they may not dodge without sacrificing their humanity and its prerogatives.

There is the west wind, that is a token, especially in America, of adventurous, sacrificial enterprise and constructive, unselfish service. This nation grew by facing west against all the adversity that was there, and it is never going to keep its soul growing until it keeps on facing the west wind that asks sacrifice and unselfish service; never going to keep its soul tone, except as it faces that north wind of imperative moral standard, "This is right, and I know it." Though there are books that you read that have whittled it all away, and have left you to decide, according to the mood or the impulse or the appetite of the moment, what is right and wrong for anybody as well as yourself, if you have read history a little bit, as you read it and understand it you will find that the nations that have gone, and utterly gone, off the surface of life, are the nations that let the east or south wind blow across their lives, and stopped facing into the north and west winds. If you watch the lives of those that are old enough for you to determine what progress in life means, you will find that those that have gone soggy and soft and flabby and insipid are the lives that have let the east and the south winds carry them along, and the men and women whom you really honor and revere are the men and women who have faced the north and the west winds, and have made of that which was adverse in its challenge, and hard in its surmounting, a friend to lift and sustain them while they grew in strength and power.

There are just two kinds of people in the world, after all. I sometimes think we are all descended from a common ancestor whose name was "Do-it," and that there are lines of descent dividing the aristocrats and the commonplace folk. They are not indicated by the kind of car you ride in, nor the color of the cover on the book your family name is in. No. They do not depend on what ladies' tailor you patronize, or even whether the school to which you went was fashionable or not. They are not accidental; they are real, these lines of division that separate the aristocrats from "hoi polloi." The lines divide, and the baptismal name of the first ancestor in one line was "Somebody Do-it," his middle name was "Must," and his family motto was "Why Not I?"—"Somebody must do it—Why not I?" And the other ancestor in the other line had the same baptismal name, which was "Somebody" and his middle name was "Will," only he was lazy and he never pronounced it the way it ought to be pronounced. He said, "Somebody Will Do-it" and his motto is, "Why Should I?"

The serious thing about it is that that line runs right through this room today, runs right through this class, right through this nation, and the descendants of "Somebody Must Do-it; Why Not I" have done all the building and the defending and the maintaining through the years, and the descendants of "Somebody Will Do it; Why Should I" have been the parasites, the passengers, the rocking-chair fleet, the grandstand critics, the people who, as Robert Louis Stevenson says, sit down at the table of life and eat and rise up and never pay.

Of course you cannot decide as to what grandfather you are going to have now; it is too late. I know; I am a grandfather. But you can decide which descendant you are going to be in this line of descent, and it is a mighty good thing to get that question settled before you get very much further along.

Perhaps you think that is a little grim. Robert Louis Stevenson divided mankind into two classes, and only two. You know how willing to oblige he was, what a combination of courage, long-suffering, high heartedness and good cheer under clouds he could not drive away from his sky because they were fixed there and how, when he was ordered south in the hope that he might find a place in the south of France to breathe and live with some comfort, he wrote some wonderful essays, and in one of those essays he says there are just two kinds of people in the world, and no more. One kind, he says, is typified by the chemist—this is in the days before drug stores were department stores—the chemist who was afraid of catching cold, so he wore a shawl at tin shoes, and dieted on tepid milk, and stayed indoors. Of course there were cobwebs in his windows—he was not interested in looking out; there was rust on the door hinges—there was nobody interested in coming into his house.

And there is only one type left, according to Stevenson, and that other type, he says, is the Alpine cragsman who is at home on the summits where the wind blows, and he says that for him to whom the sky is familiar it begins to widen so that his horizons grow very inclusive, for the size of your sky always determines the width of your horizon, and vice versa. You have got a God as big as your sense of brotherhood; you have got a brotherhood as big as your sense of God. The sky is your divine part of life; the horizon is the map of your heavenly part of life, though the sky comes right down to the ground where you stand, where your feet are, just as God envelops us in the spirit and that way. The Alpine cragsman at home where the sky is wide and he can see where the lines run here and there, and where the roads go, and as he goes, with his blood running red to the very extremities of his body, and his lungs filled—a man alive and operative and effective—as he goes to the summits, not afraid of the winds that blow, makes a path that is safe in its direction and safe in its individual footsteps for anybody who follows him.

There are not any more types left—just those two: thinking in, awful, tin shoes, tepid milk, doors closed, until thinking out and thinking back to anybody who follows, making the direction and the footsteps we make as if for tomorrow—the second type. Which are you?

You remember a little book of verses of Josephine Preston Peaby, called "Singing Leaves." I had not thought of quoting this, but I think I shall. Remember where she says:

"I'd rather far be red and white
For stupid folks to see
Than write nine books of little dull worms
To eat them, leisurely.

"And I would rather hear it said
When all my days are through,
'O she was good to read and hear
And say Good Morning.'"

You may match it for dignity and balance with Lowell's tribute to Washington in his poem "Under the Elms":

"Nor deem that acts heroic on chance
Or easy were as in a boy's romance;
The man's whole life prepares the single deed
That shall decide if his inheritance
Be with the gifted few of noiseless breed,
Our race's sap and sustenance,
Or with the unmotived herd that only sleep and feed."

My best of good wishes to you, and all honor for that which you have done, and the deepest and heartiest congratulations on the beautiful opportunities and experiences for happiness and for honor and for service that wait while you push the door "Tomorrow" ajar.

Alice De Haven Schultz, president; Helen Stearns Allen, Isabel Kingsley Arms, Eleanor Newell Barbour, Elizabeth Ross Bigler, Caroline Bullock, Mary Elizabeth Burnham, Pauline Holt Burtt, Helen Sawyer Buttrick, Catherine Sebring Campbell, Ada Eleanora Carlson, Barbara Chamberlain, Ann Cole, Katharine Cook, Ann Crawford Cutler, Marion Dix, Lucy Holley Drummond, Elaine Whitney Eaton, Elizabeth Morse Flanders, Olive Mae French, Georgeanna Gabeler, Elizabeth Gay, Mary Gay, Mary Carolyn Guptill, Eleanor Harriet Harryman, Madoline Hartwell, Frances Page Henry, Alice Hayes Hill, Elizabeth Elaine Holihan, Clara Macfarlane Holland, Martha Stratton Howe, Anne Hurlburt, Jane Hurlburt, Mary Irene Hyde, Eleanor Johnson, Elizabeth Hope Lathrop, Hilda Wood Lynde, Ruth Frances McTernen, Priscilla Bruce Mailey, Nancy Pope Marsh, Sara Alix Maxfield, Dorothy Esther Moore, Mary Elizabeth Moore, Clare Mary O'Connell, Sarah Margaret O'Reilly, Elizabeth Ann Palmer, Carol Edwards Pike, Rachel Creelman Place, Louise Hope Porter, Dorothy Reinhart, Ella Morang Robinson, Elizabeth Rogers Sage, Mabel Winifred Savage, Mary Elizabeth Scutt, Mabel Middaugh Singleton, Clara Elizabeth Smith, Ruth Elizabeth Binkerd Stott, Elizabeth Ella Tompkins, Helen Henrietta Tower, Mariatta Tower, Ruth Howe Tyler, Jean Douglass Vernon, Elizabeth Frances Vincent, Kathryn Edith Whittemore, Dorothy Louis Wrenn, Harriet Prescott Wright.

On Thursday, June 2, the class of 1933 elected its officers for the next school year as follows: President, Barbara Worth, Bronxville, N. Y.; vice-president, Mary Elizabeth Burnham, Wellesley Hills; secretary, Elizabeth Tompkins, Torrington, Conn.; treasurer, Elizabeth Sage, Bronxville, N. Y.

The Trustees of Abbot academy held a meeting at the school on Friday, June 3, and dined there as guests of Miss Bailey.

Officers for the Abbot Christian association for the next school year were elected by the school on Saturday, June 4: President, Elizabeth Weaver, Newburgh, N. Y.; vice-president, Jane Burnham, Southbridge; secretary, Elizabeth Scutt, Douglaston, L. I., N. Y.; treasurer, Lena Hamilton, Limestone, Maine.

The Rev. James Austin Richards of Oberlin, Ohio, spoke at the evening service on Saturday, June 4.

On Tuesday evening the Senior class held its annual banquet, and earlier in the day the Abbot Athletic association elected its officers for the coming school year: President, Frances McGarry, Grafton; vice-president, Helen Rice, Marlboro; secretary, Margaret Black, Mansfield, Ohio, and treasurer, Elizabeth Snyder, Montclair, N. J.

Examinations were held from Thursday, June 9, to Saturday, June 11. In the evening of June 11, the school sang very well on the steps of Abbot Hall under the leadership of Mr. Howe (Miss Ward accompanying), and sang school songs with Clare O'Connell as leader. After the step singing, the guests assembled in Davis Hall, where three one-act plays were given, each contrasting with the others in pleasing variety. The simulated portrait of George and Martha Washington was most cleverly contrived by Mr. Scannell, and the lighting threw into fine relief the dignity and charming costuming of the pair. The program follows:

Commonwealth of Massachusetts

PROBATE COURT
ESSEX, ss.
To the honorable the Judges of the Probate Court in and for the County of Essex:
RESPECTFULLY libels and represents Elizabeth Deane Williams of North Andover in said County, that she was lawfully married to Richard V. Williams now of parts unknown (but whose last known address was care of Philadelphia Public Ledger, Philadelphia, Pa.) at Boston, in said Commonwealth on the 28th day of November A.D. 1926, and thereafter your libellant and the said libellee lived together as husband and wife in this Commonwealth, to wit, at Boston, in the County of Suffolk, and at New York, in the County and State of New York that your libellant has always been faithful to their marriage vows and obligations, but the said libellee being wholly regardless of the same at New York on the first day of September A.D. 1928 and at divers other times in the said New York, the said libellee was guilty of cruel and abusive treatment toward the said libellant, by assaulting and striking her; that the said libellee had gross and confirmed habits of intoxication caused by the voluntary and excessive use of intoxicating liquor, and that on or about the 2nd day of May, 1929, the said libellee utterly deserted your libellant, which utter desertion continued for three consecutive years next prior to the filing of this libel that there have been born to them no children and the libellant further states that no action for divorce or separate support has been brought by either party against the other in this Commonwealth.
WHEREFORE your libellant prays that a divorce from the bond of matrimony between your libellant and the said libellee be decreed; and that your libellant be allowed to resume her maiden name of Elizabeth Deane.
Dated the 25th day of May A.D. 1932.
ELIZABETH DEANE WILLIAMS

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS
PROBATE COURT
ESSEX, ss. 1932
Upon the foregoing libel, ordered, that the said libellant give notice to said Richard V. Williams by causing an attested copy of said libel, and of this order thereon, to be published in the Andover Townsman, a newspaper published in Andover in the County of Essex once a week for three weeks successively, the last publication to be fourteen days at least before the return day of this Court, at Salem within the County of Essex, on the fifth day of July A.D. 1932, and by mailing forthwith, by registered letter to the libellee at his last known place of residence an attested copy of said libel and of this order thereon: that he may appear at said Court within six months from said fifth day of July and show cause, if any he has, why the prayer of said libel should not be granted.
Witness, HARRY R. DOW, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this first day of June in the year one thousand nine hundred and thirty-two.
HORACE H. ATHERTON, JR., Register
The foregoing is a true copy of said libel and of the order thereon.

Article Tells of Andover Farm

In the first of a series of project articles in the Essex Farmer and Homemaker for May, the story of the development of Saul Shtrumpfman's poultry farm in West Andover is told. It is accompanied by a photo of Mr. Shtrumpfman with a hatful of baby chicks. The story follows:

"This is only a hatful of the 1600 baby chicks Saul Shtrumpfman has on his poultry farm in Andover. Starting with 1200 chicks on his Senior project in 1930, Saul raised 475 pullets his first summer and built a two-decker laying house with grain storage rooms.

His land, covering five and a half acres, formerly a spreading pine grove, was broken up, and so cleared that room was made for the laying house and four brooder houses as well, with feeding hoppers plentifully scattered round about.

There are 1600 chicks now, and 400 yearlings raised purely for egg production.

Half an acre has been plowed for strawberry raising this summer. Vegetables for the chicks will also be raised, and now visions of a fruit orchard, to be set out on the farthest side of his property, are rising in Saul's mind.

One hardly needs go West—and back a century ago—to find pioneer spirit, when right here in Essex County a young man starts clearing the land to start farming for himself."

Press 17—P. O. 8

The spectators at the baseball game between the Andover Press and the Post Office Wednesday evening were a little in doubt as to whether they were viewing an athletic contest or a stage show. The Press came out ahead 17-8. The game was a comedy of errors throughout, with each team making seven miscues.

Harold Johnson twirled for the Press and kept his opponents well in check until the ninth when the mailmen collected five runs. Johnson struck out ten, and Webster of the Post Office fanned nine. Leo Driscoll started in the box for the losers, but he delivered too many free passes. It is only for Congressmen and other high officials that mailmen are allowed to deliver free, and so Driscoll was replaced by Webster.

The fielding feature of the game was contributed by Collins at first base for the Press. It is rumored that George after the game turned down a contract with the Braves to go on the Keith circuit as a specialty dancer. The scouts for the Braves saw in his dazzling catch a fine piece of baseball, but the RKO people made a higher bid because of the distance separating Collins' feet at the time of the play.

Most of the thirty-one hits made were singles. Renny connected for a two-bagger and the Press center fielder luckily smashed out a circuit clout.

O.E.S. Conducts Dancing Party

On Monday evening at the Andover Square and Compass club a card party and dance was held under the auspices of the Andover chapter, 187, O. E. S. Team six conducted the affair, at which over one hundred people were present. Bridge and whist were played from 8.00 p.m. to 10.00 p.m. and was followed by dancing until midnight. The following prizes were awarded: Whist prize, Robert Deyermond; bridge, S. T. Berry, high score of 1781, and Mrs. Elizabeth Walker, score of 1746. The door prize, a beautiful table lamp, was won by Mrs. William Knapton of Shawsheen village. F. E. Lawson received the consolation prize. Other winners were: Mrs. Fraser, John Hill, Miss Gertrude Flynn, Alex Beedie, Mrs. Bertha Thornton, Arthur Archer, F. Nason, and Charles T. Foster. A popular orchestra furnished the music, and refreshments were served.

Those on the committee were: Mrs. Harrison Brown, chairman; Miss Bertha Higgins, Miss Grace Higgins, Mrs. Annie Hardy, Miss Bertha Cuthill, Mrs. Alexina Mozeen, Miss Jessie Dobbie, Mrs. Harry Stevenson and Miss Esther West.

Stowe School Notes

8-F provided a morning assembly program as a start for the school library this morning. The program was as follows: "Purpose of the Assembly," Julius Rockwell; "Sing a Song of Books," John Cederberg; "Why a Library in the Junior High School?", an informal debate, Jack Haggerty, Janet Snow, Gertrude Walker, James Gillespie; "Living with Books," Constance Turnbull; "The Library at Present," Fred Morrison; "Appeal for Books," Alton Porter; "Desirable Books," Patsy Lowry; "Notice of Sale," Wilfred Moriarty.

Pictures of the Punchard band, some members of which are from Stowe, are being sold. Several pupils have already purchased them.

The graduation exercises are to be held in the town hall on Thursday afternoon, June 23.

A very profitable sale was sponsored by the 8-F library committee on Monday. The proceeds will be used for new books.

On the morning of June 8 an interesting assembly representing the meetings of the Continental Congress was given by members of 7-A1.

The seventh grade home rooms have been invited to 8-E to view the geography projects now on exhibit in Room 3.

WEST PARISH

Miss Mary Gould of Waltham is visiting Mrs. Sarah Wagstaff of Lowell road.

Mrs. Arthur Lewis entertained the Hawthorne club on Wednesday evening.

Mrs. Nellie Mooar is enjoying a visit with Mrs. E. J. Terwilleger of Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

Mrs. Harry Playdon, who has been ill for several weeks, is now improving and hopes soon to be out again.

Miss Ebba Peterson invites the teachers, officers and adult members of the Sunday school to a meeting at her home on Tuesday evening, June 21, at seven o'clock.

The president, Miss Helen Lewis, of the R. P. C. Girls' club entertained the club at her home on Monday evening. Plans were made for the annual week-end outing to be held soon.

Parents' Day will be observed at Essex Agricultural school June 22. Andover has a goodly number of students at this school and a day spent there as a guest would being much pleasure to any one interested and could not fail to awaken an interest in any one visiting the school.

This evening the Women's Union of the West church is holding a Colonial Lawn Party on the grounds at the North school. Every effort is being made by the committee to make this one of the season's successes. Those attending are asked to wear colonial or patriotic costumes. Refreshments will be served, as only West Parish cooks know how to serve them. There will also be check dancing and games.

At the Children's Day exercises at the West church, these children received Bibles; Janet and Betty Carter, Mary Winslow, Warren, Marilyn and Barbara Lewis, Barbara Milnes, Thomas Carter. Three children were baptized: Robert Allen Wright, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wright, James Calder, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. James Calder and Russell George Doyle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Doyle. Each child was given a plant. Plans were made for West church Sunday school's share in the picnic at Pleasant pond on Saturday the eighteenth. Those planning to attend are asked to be at the vestry promptly at nine o'clock. Miss Peterson, the superintendent, requests this so that she may plan for conveyances. Basket lunches will be carried as in former years.

Tuesday evening was gala night at Andover Grange. North Andover and North Reading Granges were the invited guests of the evening and guests from Fitchburg, Methuen, West Boxford, Danvers, Reading, Laurel of West Newbury, Peabody, Ipswich, Woburn, Newbury, Weirs, N. H., Chelmsford, and Lowell Granges were also present. In the attendance contest the ladies were ahead at this meeting. At the lecturer's hour it was announced that North Andover and North Reading would give a fifteen-minute program each at the close of the meeting. The following program was given: Musical selection, Mrs. George Snell; sketch, "Doggone," by Pauline Rupp and Grace Currier; Uni-cycle demonstration by Frank Blood followed by a laughable sketch by Robert King, ventriloquist of North Reading. Following this came the grand march of those in costume. Miss Pauline Rupp of North Andover won the prize for the prettiest costume, Miss Helen Carter of North Andover won the prize for the most original costume and Sidney White of Andover Grange won the prize for the funniest. He posed as a hobo. The judges were Albert Little, Worthy Master of Middlesex-Essex Pomona; Miss Bernice Frisbie Smith of Lowell and Mrs. Marion Johnson of Chelmsford Grange. Refreshments were served at this time and then dancing with MacLenna's orchestra of Lowell furnishing the music followed, closing with the Virginia Reel. The next meeting, June 28, will be of unusual interest because many electric conveniences for the household and farm will be demonstrated and explained.

Piano Recital on Monday Evening

The pupils of Miss Marion L. Abbott will give their annual pianoforte recital on Monday evening, June 20, at 7.30 o'clock in the November clubhouse. The varied and bright colored costumes from many lands to be worn by the young performers will add to the interest of the concert. The public is most cordially invited.

New Books Added at Local Library

New books recently added at the Memorial Hall Library are as follows:

EATON. EVERYBODY'S GARDEN. Informal chats on unity, simplicity, good taste and natural grace in the landscaping of home ground to be achieved by the use of native plants and shrubs and inexpensive materials. Stresses the esthetic side of gardens rather than the practical one. 716 E14e

LATTIMORE. MANCHURIA, CRADLE OF CONFLICT. A carefully considered study which emphasizes the ethnological and cultural development of the country and its historical background. Manchuria today is shown to be the battlefield for three types of civilization; the Chinese, the Russian and the Japanese. 915.18 L35

SALTER. RECOVERY. A world-wide view of the causes and course of the present depression, by the former director of the economic section of the League of Nations. A coherent, enlightening exposition of the international aspects of the financial situation and the efforts toward recovery. 330 S17

SAVAGE. ALLENBY OF ARMAGEDON. The war in Palestine was one of the important features in the final defeat of the Central Powers during the Great War. This life of General Allenby gives a detailed account of the activities which ended with the capture of Jerusalem and the Holy Land, and the downfall of the Turk. 92 A433a

WOODWARD & ROSE. PRIMER OF MONEY. A clear statement of the principles underlying monetary and banking systems. It is simple enough for a reader unversed in economic theory, and sufficiently ample to give a background for understanding the present money troubles of the world. 332 W87

Other books added to the Library follow:
Alexander, Grand Duke. Once a Grand Duke. 92 A375

The report made at the meeting of the Andover Emergency Relief committee Tuesday evening that enough contributions had been made or promised to start fifty men to work on Monday morning is one of which the town should feel proud. The faculty of Phillips academy, the town employees, and all the other donors are to be commended for their fine spirit, and it is hoped that what they have done will serve as a stimulus to those others who may be able to help.

It should not be forgotten that the Emergency committee has only started on a task that will probably continue through next winter at least. No one should give now, and then feel that he has fulfilled his duty, for the duty of the townspeople of Andover will last just as long as the present unemployment situation lasts.

It is very easy to say: "I can't possibly afford to give anything," but a good part of the people in Andover really can afford to make a donation of some sort. When the Emergency committee first organized, they asked the selectmen if there were any funds in the town treasury that could be used for relief work. Unfortunately legal restrictions prevented the use of any of the public funds, but the very attempt to find some money is one which should serve as a lesson to the townspeople. What the town government has done, the citizens should also do. Everyone should examine his budget, take account of his expenses, and then see if in some way he can find some funds to contribute to this worthy cause. There is always something that can be cut from a person's expense account, and a detailed analysis of one's budget will undoubtedly prove that he really can give.

If everyone who has a steady job in Andover today were to do what the town employees have done give up two weeks' pay, the committee's task would be lessened appreciably. The town employees are no more able to give than the greater part of those citizens who say, "I can't give a cent," but they are turning over part of their pay every week and are adjusting their expenses accordingly. Why can't everyone else do the same? Why can't everyone with a permanent job figure up how much money two weeks' pay would amount to and then donate something weekly so that by the end of the year, he would have donated as much of his pay as the town employees have? It can be done. Resolve to give, and then adjust your expenses. Maybe it will hurt, but it will help someone far more than it will hurt you.

Editorial Cinders

During the past week the town of Andover has been given ample proof of the excellent public spirit of the town employees. When the teachers voted Wednesday afternoon to donate two weeks of their salaries, they added their names to a growing list of town employees who were generous enough to help the unemployed at their own expense. The town workers are in general more abused by the public tongue than any other class of workers, but this week they have shown everybody that they are worthy of the greatest respect that can be bestowed upon them. They are merely another class of employees, and it was no more their duty to give than it is the duty of any other citizen in town. Yet they did give, and the least we can do for them now is to give praise rather than criticism.

A check was received by the Board of Public Welfare last week which carried with it a world of significance. It was from a Phillips Academy student, Burns Henry of Grosse Pointe Farms, Michigan. The young man graduated today from the academy, and as he neared the end of the term he realized that he would have a little balance in the bank. The check was for the entire balance. So much criticism is heard in every town which has a school with out-of-town students that this generous action stands out as a powerful argument against those who contend that a school is detrimental or useless to a town. The action of the academy faculty in contributing $1400 is also significant in this connection. Incidentally, if a young man from Michigan can donate to Andover's needy, why not you?

Historic Houses Open on Thursday

Six historic houses and their gardens, in North Andover, will be open to the public on Thursday, June 23, from 2 to 6 p.m. One dollar admission fee includes the six.

Three of these places situated in the first parish of old Andover, now known as North Andover, form an unique group, and are centered round the old burying ground of the first settlers of the Plantation of Andover, settled in 1642.

The house of the Hon. Simeon Bradstreet, first secretary of the Massachusetts Colony, and later Colonial Governor for thirteen years, is the oldest. It was built in 1667 on the site of an older house, burnt the previous year. Here lived Ann Bradstreet, his wife, the first poetess in America, and the most cultivated woman in the colony. During the last thirty years of her life in this house she wrote most of her poems, and when she died she was carried across the tiny valley to the graveyard on the hillside opposite, where she was buried. After the death of her oldest son, Col. Dudley Bradstreet, in 1702, this house passed into other hands. It was at one time the boarding school of Master Simeon Putnam, two of whose scholars, Amos A. Lawrence and Chandler Robbins, left their autographs on window panes, which can be seen to this day.

Across from the Bradstreet house is the gambrel-roofed Phillips Manse, built in 1752 by the Hon. Samuel Phillips, who was induced, through the persuasion of his son, to give the money to found Phillips Andover Academy. The windows of this house look out on the stately monumental tomb on the opposite hillside of the Hon. Samuel Phillips and his consort Elizabeth. Unlike the Bradstreet house, the Phillips Manse still belongs to direct descendants of the builder. It was at one time the summer home of Bishop Phillips Brooks, and now belongs to his nieces.

Further up on Academy Road stands the third house of this group, the square Revolutionary period Kittredge house, built in 1784 by Dr. Thomas Kittredge from designs by McIntyre, and now occupied by a descendant of the builder. In one of the rooms may still be seen the hook on which Dr. Kittredge hung a mannikin when teaching his pupils, before the days of medical schools.

These houses as a group representing three periods of colonial architecture, with one of the oldest graveyards in New England nearby, cannot be duplicated in America.

The fourth house to be opened is the mansion house of Col. Moody Bridges, officer in the French and Indian War, and representative to the first Provincial Congress. Built towards the end of the seventeenth century it was the scene of much hospitality during the life of Colonel Bridges. After his death it was bought by Isaac Stevens, and is now owned by Mrs. Edmund F. Leland, a descendant of John Stevens, one of the first settlers.

The house of Col. James Frye, officer in the French and Indian War, on Chestnut street, is the next in order. Tradition says that the Governor of Louisburg, Chevalier de Drucour, a prisoner of war in the house of his friend, here signed the terms of the capitulation of Louisburg. This house is now owned by a descendant of first settler Andrew Peters, H. W. Clarke.

The Mrs. John G. Coolidge house is perhaps the most interesting historically. Part of it was built not long after 1700 and the rest some fifty years later. It stands on land granted to her first settler ancestor John Stevens and has been owned by her family for eight generations. It is the only house in North Andover so distinguished, as the Phillips and Kittredge families were not first settlers.

gis; recording secretary, Miss Mary E. Bancroft; general secretary, Miss Jane B. Carpenter; assistant secretary, Mrs. Laura Cheever Downs; and auditor, Miss Esther L. Colby.

The committees for the coming year are as follows: Advisory, Miss Maude T. Belknap, 1893, Boston; Miss Charlotte W. Hardy, 1898, Brewer, Maine; Mrs. Phyllis Brooks Stevens, 1915, Lowell; Mrs. Faith Leonard Holden, 1901, Springfield; Mrs. Mercer Mason Kemper, 1902, Manchester, N. H.; Mrs. Abby Smith Taylor, 1904, Waban; Miss Janet L. Gorton, 1909, Brookline; Mrs. Emily Silsby Morgan, 1910, Hartford, Conn.; Miss Lucy Drummond, 1932, Bronxville, N. Y. Reunion, Miss Jane B. Carpenter, Mrs. Jean David Blunt, Mrs. Nellie Flint Rand, Miss Katharine Clay, Mrs. Laura Cheever Downs, Mrs. Frances Moses Cheever, Mrs. Frances Keany Rickard, Miss Evelyn Bailey. Alumnae Income Fund, Mrs. Enid Baush Patterson, Mrs. Ruth Childs Young (secretary), Mrs. Louise Richards Rollins, Miss Frances L. Flagg, Mrs. Helen Walker Parsons. Mid-winter Luncheon, to be appointed by the president.

Reception and Luncheon

At the conclusion of the meeting the company proceeded to McKeen hall, where all had an opportunity to shake hands with Miss Kelsey and Miss Mason. The luncheon, served by Page, of Lowell, was held in the large study hall. The after luncheon exercises began with induction of the graduating class into the alumnae organization. The girls, led by the president, Miss Lucy Drummond, marched in singing the class song, were presented by Miss Bailey and received by Mrs. Angus, president of the association. After singing to Miss Bailey, Miss Kelsey, Miss Mason and the Alumnae, they led the audience in the "Alma Mater," written by Miss Margaret Payne of the class of 1907, holding its twenty-five year reunion.

Then came the roll call of classes. First a message of greeting was read from the present "Senior Alumna," Miss Emily Carter, of Andover, ninety-three years old, of the class of 1854. Mention was made of the fact that there were nineteen alumnae living who left the school seventy or more years ago. The earliest class in attendance was 1867, represented by Miss Caroline Park, of West Boxford, and by a letter read from its president, Mrs. Emily Fellows Reed, a former resident of Andover in the Morton house, opposite the academy.

The response for the class of 1877 was made by Mrs. Ellen Emerson Cary, who presented to the school for the class a beautiful hammered metal Japanese bowl. The other members present were Mrs. Sarah Bird Harris, of Winchester, and Miss Isabella Currier, of East Kingston, N. H., and non-graduates, Mrs. Kate Buss Tyer and Miss Kate Jenkins of Andover. The absence of the president, Mrs. Josephine Richards Gile of Colorado Springs, was regretted. She has a granddaughter in the graduating class.

The fifty-year class, 1882, had four members present, two of whom spoke, Miss Annie Frye, of Rockland, Maine, president, and Mrs. Effie Dresser Wilde, of Winchester. The greeting for 1902 was given by the president, Mrs. Mercer Mason Kemper, of Manchester, N. H., whose daughter, the "class baby," with her little daughter, was also present.

The response for the twenty-five year class, 1907, was made by the president, Mrs. Maria Pillsbury Hawkes, of Springfield, who was, by a happy coincidence, the "class baby" of the fifty-year class. Mrs. Hawkes was marshal at the graduation exercises on Tuesday. Brief greetings were also given for 1892, 1897, 1910, 1917, 1922 and 1927.

Miss Caroline M. Park of West Boxford, was by ten years the most distinguished of the earlier alumnae, having been graduated in 1867. She was celebrating the sixty-fifth anniversary of her commencement in good health and unimpaired spirits. Miss Park is the niece of the Professor Edwards Park of Andover fame and her nephew, Rev. Charles Park of Boston, as well as her cousin of a younger generation, Miss Marion Park, president of Bryn Mawr, follow in the steps of fourteen generations of professional people. Her mother was a Miss Pope, descendant of the Pope family of Portland, Maine, and of early Brookline, whose residence in elaborate engravings appears in ancient colonial records. Miss Anna Park, her sister, also celebrated her sixty-fifth anniversary at Abbot academy. "Miss Carrie," as her friends call her, is devotedly loyal to Abbot.

Teachers Honored

At this point a vote was heartily passed that a telegram of affectionate greeting be sent to Miss Alice Twitchell, 1886, belonging to all classes through her loyal and enthusiastic work as Director of the Loyalty Endowment Fund.

At the head table, with the president, principal and guests of honor were nine alumnae, wearing wide blue ribbon badges, who represented the nine five-year periods included in the forty-five years since Miss Kelsey began her service, Miss Mason having come five years later. This group symbolized the extent of the influence of these two beloved teachers. Three of them spoke briefly for all in sincere tribute, Mrs. Annis Spencer Gilbert, of Still River, for the first years, Mrs. Christine Wyer McClearn, of Portland, for the middle time, 1902-07, and Miss Lucy Drummond, of Bronxville, N. Y., president of the graduating class, for the girls of today. The other alumnae of the group were Mrs. Mary Richardson Eames, Billerica, 1892-97; Mrs. Mercer Mason Kemper, Manchester, N. H., 1897-1902; Mrs. Ruth Murray Moore, Brockton, 1907-12; Mrs. Miriam Bacon Chellis, Beverly, 1912-17; Mrs. Gwendolen Bloomfield Tillson, Wellesley, 1917-22; Miss Gertrude Drummond, Bronxville, N. Y., 1922-27.

Mrs. Angus then presented to Miss Kelsey and Miss Mason in behalf of the association a silver coffee set, which was accepted with a few words of gratitude and appreciation from each of them. The unusual attendance at the luncheon in this "depression" year was significant of the general desire of the alumnae to pay homage to these women who have meant so much during these years in character building as well as in mind training.

Necrology for 1931-32

Y., February 7, 1932.

Fifty Men to Go to Work Monday

At the conference Miss Putnam explained the attitude of the teachers. She stated that they were soon to have a long vacation without pay. She also mentioned that her valuation had gone up fifty percent. The teachers, she stated, have already contributed to many other relief campaigns, the most recent being the Lawrence Community Chest campaign. Miss Putnam added that she has not been able to become reconciled to the Chest plan, for she has always felt that Andover could handle its own affairs without assistance from Lawrence.

The committee which met the Emergency Board was comprised of Miss Clara A. Putnam, chairman; Miss Eunice Stack, Miss Reta V. Atkinson, Nathan C. Hamblin and Henry C. Sanborn.

During the discussion Dr. Fuess told Miss Putnam that the committee was in no way bringing pressure to bear on the teachers or on any of the town employees. Later in the evening Dr. Daly was asked if the firemen or the police department had been first to offer their two weeks' pay, and he replied that the selectmen had been first to make the contribution. The selectmen, then, Dr. Daly, stated, went to the heads of these two public safety departments and to the other town hall employees and asked them to make a similar contribution.

Miss Katherine Walsh, the registration clerk, reported at the meeting that 264 had registered to date. Seventeen women had applied for work. At press time this morning 000 had registered. She stated that some of the cases were very pitiful and very deserving. Mrs. Lotta M. Johnson, the Board of Public Welfare agent reported that she had divided the registration list into four classes according to the unemployed's need. The work Monday will be assigned according to this list, the most deserving receiving first consideration.

Refuse to Sign

It was also mentioned at the meeting that several men had refused to sign up for work because they did not care to work for forty cents an hour alongside the regular Board of Public Works men who receive 56 1-4 cents an hour. William D. McIntyre chairman of the Board, stated that the regular men would not be employed on the unemployment work. He added that the regular employees knew the work better than those who were not accustomed to it. He stated that while the unemployed could undoubtedly do this form of manual labor, the regular help was more experienced.

When asked what work could be done, Mr. McIntyre mentioned gravel work on Jenkins road. Five men could be used on the Playstead, and four painters and two carpenters could also be employed. He suggested, however, that the best way to spend the money would be in cutting brush at the side of the roads. He estimated that forty miles of roadway could be cleared. Selectmen Andrew McTernen said that he hoped that a good job would be done in clearing away this brush so that it would not have to be done every five years. Mr. McIntyre followed this up with the statement that he believed that the Tree department had a machine which could be used to cut down the brush yearly once a thorough job had been done on it.

In this connection Frederick H. Jones brought up the offer of one of the town's prominent men to allow the use of his tools. It was suggested that other residents would also lend tools so that as much money as possible could be used for labor. Mr. McIntyre repeated the Board's offer to provide trucks if the committee provided the money for labor.

Dr. Fuess stated that he and Mr. Jones had prepared a list of people who could in their opinion contribute fifty dollars or more to the funds. He asked if the other members of the committee would help solicit these people, and in general the committee felt that it was their duty to do so. Present plans call for solicitation by telephone

The details of paying off the workers were also arranged at the meeting. The departments will make up the payrolls, the committee treasurer, Dr. Fuess, will provide the necessary sums, and the Town Treasurer, Mr. Eaton, will do the paying.

The committee sent the following letter to the Board of Selectmen Wednesday as an expression of appreciation for the donations:

"At the meeting of the Andover Emergency Committee it was unanimously voted 'that the Andover Emergency Committee appreciates greatly the voluntary and generous action of the Selectmen, Police, Firemen, and Clerks of the Town Office in contributing two weeks' wages to the fund for the relief of unemployment in the Town of Andover.'

"I take pleasure in notifying you, as executive head of the Board of Selectmen, of this vote of appreciation and request that you thank each member of your department on our behalf."

Local Boys Hike to Mt. Monadnock

Midshipman Allan C. Edmands of the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis, who is at home on a two months' leave, and Harry Meadowcroft of Washington avenue, who has just finished a cruise to South America, left today for a hike to Mt. Monadnock.

Each is equipped with a pup tent, blanket and cooking equipment and they have made out their route through Lowell, Nashua and Peterborough, N. H.

Last year Midshipman Edmands hiked alone to Mt. Wachusett and back in a little over two days. The boys hope to make this trip within four days.

Local Boys Win Awards at Dummer

At the graduation exercises of Governor Dummer academy, South Byfield, Howard W. Walker of Shawsheen village was awarded the Goodwin prize for general excellence in athletics. At Punchard high, he was a three-letter man. Walker was captain of the academy baseball team this spring, participated in track, and won a letter in both football and hockey. As yet he has not decided which college to attend in the fall.

Another Shawsheen boy, Elwood Chase, was awarded a special prize at Governor Dummer academy. He also played on the football team.

Punchard Season Successfully Ended

Coach Lovely in his many years as coach of baseball at Punchard High school has produced several undefeated teams, but never has he placed on the diamond a team with more fighting spirit or a team less easily discouraged than his 1932 edition. Time and time again the Punchard nine has seen its opponents run up a lead of as much as five runs. In such a case most teams would lose all confidence in themselves, but the boys on the Punchard team have always refused to give up until three were out in the ninth inning. Again and again the high school team has come back to win after even the most optimistic of spectators were sure that the Punchard group were going to lose. Proof of these statements is easy to find, if one glances over the season's record.

On May 16 Howe High School of Billerica was defeating Punchard 9 to 8 in the fourth inning, but the local lads in the next two innings piled up four runs and at the end were victorious 14 to 11. A week later Groton had a lead of 4 to 0 over Punchard at the end of the third inning. Again the local nine refused to become discouraged. Three runs in the fourth inning and two more in the fifth were chalked up by the Punchard players. Groton retied it up in the sixth, but Punchard's reply was two more runs in the seventh to win the ball game. The very next day Johnson was leading 6 to 3 in the fourth, but in the next three innings eleven runs were added by Punchard to win the game.

The three major contests on the schedule were featured by this same "never-say-die" spirit of the Punchard group. On May 12 Punchard lost to Methuen, but only after a very hard fight. Methuen scored five times in the first two innings while Punchard remained scoreless. During the rest of the game Pitcher John Griffin held Methuen runless while his teammates fell one run short of tying the score. This first defeat by Methuen did not discourage the Punchard nine; two weeks later the local high school defeated Methuen 4 to 1.

The Exeter game was undoubtedly the most thrilling game that has ever been played on the local playstead. In the last half of the last inning Exeter was leading 7 to 5 and Punchard's chances seemed very gloomy to everyone in the park except the team itself. A base on balls, a sacrifice, an error, and an infield out produced one run to make the score 7 to 6; but two were out and defeat still seemed inevitable. Captain Walter Pearson, exemplifying the spirit that Punchard has shown all year, then tripled to deep right field, scoring Higus Asonian with the tying run; and then Rennie singled to send his captain across the plate with the winning run.

The heaviest hitter on the Lovely team this year was Higus Asonian, whose batting average was .513. Other batters over .300 include Harry Gouck, Captain Pearson, Albert Swenson, and Archie Davidson. In the second Howe High game Pearson and Gouck poled out home runs.

The greater part of the pitching was done by Albert Swenson, while excellent relief work was contributed by Lester Hilton, John Griffin, and Coburn Stickney.

All the other players deserve commendation too, because the 1932 Puncharders formed a team whose success was due to fighting spirit on the part of every player and remarkable team work. Congratulations are due also to Coach Lovely, who has instilled this winning spirit into his team; to Captain Pearson, who has proved an ideal leader; and to the Punchard student body whose support has been an important factor in bringing about this successful season.

Engagement Announced

The Reverend Dr. and Mrs. Horace A. Westwood, of Hingham Center, announce the engagement of their daughter, Florence Ashby Westwood, to Woodward J. Blackburn, of Andover.

On June 13 Hon. and Mrs. William H. Patten of Nashua, N. H. announced the engagement of their daughter, Dorothy Lyman Patten to Kenneth Smith Minard of Boston. Miss Patten, who graduated from Nashua high school and Smith college, is a member of the faculty of Abbot academy. Mr. Minard, who is an instructor in the mathematics department of Phillips academy, received his A.B. degree from Brown University and his M.A. degree from Harvard University.

Piano Recital at Punchard Monday

A concert of a most unusual nature was given Monday evening in Punchard hall by five pianoforte pupils of Miss Lily Booth. The setting for the concert was in the form of a picture frame and as each young lady played her solos the effect produced was that of a "musical picture." The rendition of the different numbers on the program reflected great credit on both teacher and pupils. At the end of the concert Miss Booth was presented with a beautiful basket of American Beaty roses.

The program:

Menace to Children

To the Editor of the Townsman:

The Shawsheen River, as is well known, has collected its toll of youthful lives, and now, an unforeseen meance has arisen which has disturbed the peace of mind of many Abbott Village mothers. Where the Village Hall once stood is now a deep hole. Someone was kind enough to put up a fence (?) bordering the hole on the Essex street side. Part of this so-called fence has been torn down at the most dangerous place. Dangerous to motorists as well as pedestrians, not to discount the fact that there are numerous children in this section of the town. Several people have suggested a petition, but where to send it is the question as this is private land and does not belong to the Town. However, it is felt, that the Town should get in touch with the owners of this property and suggest that they fulfil their duty in ridding this section of such a menace, thereby setting at ease the minds of the various mothers whose children have a tendency to play near the hole, no matter how much they may be scolded. There is plenty of material in the vicinity to fill in the ruin.

"A Taxpayer's Catechism"

The following is a reprint of an editorial which appeared in the "Banker and Tradesman" on May 21. It is an interesting comparison of business and governmental methods of balancing budgets.

To Balance or Merely Nearly Balance?

Q. How does the average business man go about balancing his budget in this war-on-depression?

A. First he figures his possible income, and he figures it low so as to be on the safe side. Then he cuts his expenses to meet that figure, with a little margin for safety. Really, it's very simple.

Q. How does the Government (and the State) go about balancing its budget?

A. We're not quite sure, but it looks like this: All the politicians get together and raise a great shout for "economy." That's the first move, and it's a tried and true method that has always satisfied the dear public in the past and may work this time, so it's worth trying. Then the politicians break up into groups. Group No. 1 says, "Let's cut down on everything except" (and here follows a list of exceptions that are politically sacred). Group No. 2 says, "Let's cut down on everything except" (more pet exceptions). And so with groups Nos. 3, 4, 5 and 6. Then the groups come together. There is wrangling that ends in a swapping bee, and when that is over the "exceptions" have all been "excepted" and the only way to balance the budget is to raise the other side of the budget. That is done by the good, old-fashioned method of raising the taxes. Of course, the people will be satisfied! They always have been in the past! We, the legislators, know what is best for the people! That is how the budget is balanced in the halls of National and State Legislation.

Q. Does the average business man, when he cuts his expenses to balance his budget cut out only the things he can get along easily without?

A. No. He cuts luxuries and trimmings first, then tots up his figures. No balance yet! He cuts some so-called necessities. He tots up again. Still no balance, but he sees that he's on the right track! He cuts deep into the heart of what he has always considered absolute necessities. And lo! He gets a balance! It hurts like sin, but the darn thing is balanced and he knows that within the limits of human fallibility he's safe to go ahead on that basis.

Q. Does the Government—State or Federal—go about it in the same way?

A. No, indeed! Once an item of expense has been put on the governmental books it apparently becomes not a luxury, not even a necessity nor an absolute necessity, but an absolutely irremovable necessity that would break someone's political heart to have removed. And so it isn't removed.

Q. What is the difference between the ordinary business man's method of balancing the budget and the governmental way of balancing the budget?

A. Figure it out for yourself on your next year's tax bill. And the answer will be startling unless right now you can convince your political representatives that there are a lot of expensive luxuries in government that you can get along without—perhaps including themselves, unless they see the light.

Summary

In rubbing it into Congress it is inevitable that we all hit some of the really able, conscientious men who are honestly and earnestly striving to bring order out of chaos. This is too bad, of course, but the need of pressure is so great that we urge taxpayers everywhere to keep the pressure on the "just as on the unjust" until something approaching a sane balancing of the budget is accomplished.

Taciturn Aristocrat

The character of Henry Cavendish has baffled many inquiries, says an article in Nature Magazine. His habits were more those of a recluse than of a scion of a noble house. All his life he was shy, reserved and taciturn, Brougham saying that "he probably uttered fewer words in the course of his life than any man who ever lived to fourscore years, not at all excepting the monks of La Trappe."

Feeling his end was near, he said to his servant:

"Mind what I say—I am going to die. When I am dead, but not till then, go to Lord George Cavendish and tell him—go!"

Red Indian "Currency"

Roanoke was one of several variants applied by the Virginia colonists to the shell beads employed by the neighboring Indians as articles of personal adornment or media of exchange. It is a case of substitution of a familiar word for one that was ill understood and probably more difficult to pronounce. Capt. John Smith (1612 and 1624) gives the Powhatan name for shell beads in the form of rawrenock and rawranoke, and William Strachey defines rarenaw as a chain of beads. The original word may have been rarenawok, smoothed shells, plural of rarenaw.

"As a Man Thinketh"

Doctors know that when a patient makes up his mind that he is going to die it is very hard to save him. Despair weakens. On the other hand, the indomitable determination to get well, combined with a sunny spirit, often cheats death of his prey. If you know that you are going to fail, you will fail; and you will deserve it. If you wish to succeed in life, resist the tendency to think that you are inferior. Believe that you can do what you undertake; then put every ounce of your energy into the task.—Rev. R. P Anderson.

Phillips Academy Commencement

Class Day

The Annual senior class day was held yesterday afternoon in the Borden gymnasium. The program was one of the most novel that has ever been presented by a senior class. Gladwin A. Hill as class historian related the more important events witnessed by the Class of 1932 including the humorous high lights. This discourse was followed by selections by a quartet composed of Raymond S. Pearsall, Bailey W. Brown, John A. Kleinhans, and William G. Fawcett. Ring W. Lardner, Jr., as class poet then recited an amusing original poem. Three very talented entertainers, William Hausberg, 2d, Charles T. Alexander, and George P. Bartholomew, Jr., then performed, and the great burst of applause which followed their acts was well deserved.

The class orator, Arthur G. Sullivan, was the next speaker. The quartet then sang some humorous selections, and the program was concluded by an entertaining class prophecy given by Sidney E. Sweet. The entire program was enthusiastically received by an audience composed of seniors, their families and friends, undergraduates, and a few alumni. The class day committee was made up of Richard J. Barr, Jr. and Horace W. Davis.

Dramatic Presentation

Last night at 8.30 in the meeting room of George Washington hall, the dramatic club presented William Archer's four-act play, 'The Green Goddess," before a capacity audience. Mrs. A. Buel Trowbridge was the leading lady, and her acting and the acting of A. Gilman Sullivan, Richard L. Linkroum, and Charles M. Garth deserve special mention. The cast follows: the Rajah of Rukh, A. G. Sullivan; Watkins, his valet, David A. Escher; Major Antony Crespin, R. L. Linkroum; Lucilla, his wife, Mrs. Trowbridge; Doctor Basil Traherne, Sidney E. Sweet, Jr.;; Lieutenant Denis Cardew, J. Scott Greene, Jr.; the High Priest, John C. Ramsey; the Temple Priest, C. M. Garth; Priests, Villagers, Soldiers, Servants, Litterbearers, Musicians: H. L. Stern, Jr., H. E. Huntington, M. S. Johnston, Jr., P. S. Brayton, G. T. Shallenberger, W. L. Nute, Jr., J. M. Cates, Jr., F. Brown, R. F. Meyers, R. G. Dorr, F. Gardner, A. W. Peck, Jr., G. T. Peck, C. A. McCarthy, T. L. Greenough, F. Leonard, R. B. Mudge, A. B. Bower, J. V. B. Dean, P. K. Bartow, G. H. Lowe, 3d, T. C. Brainerd, F. W. Capers, P. H. Schroeder, J. F. Malloy, P. J. Kann, W. Cates, P. M. O'Fill, Jr., A. Sophian, Jr., H. S. Robinson, W. T. Gardner, R. W. Richardson, R. B. Palmer, F. M. Blount, W. A. Diven, Jr., A. F. Kitchel, Jr., D. M. Thompson, J. T. Mason, and D. H. Waring.

The settings were designed by A. T. Lougee, who this morning at commencement was awarded the prize for original art.

Weddings

FULLER—CUTLER

West Parish church was decorated with white peonies massed against a background of cedar trees for the marriage this noon of Miss Margaret Thurston Cutler, daughter of Granville Keith Cutler of Lowell street, to George Morton Fuller, son of Dr. and Mrs. George S. Fuller, 125 Berkeley street, Lawrence. Dr. Stanley High of Darien, Connecticut, brother-in-law of the bride, performed the ceremony, assisted by Dr. C. Guy Robbins of Lawrence, in the presence of the immediate families and relatives. Albert Couch of Lawrence played the wedding music as the bride entered the church on the arm of her brother, Granville K. Cutler, Jr. The bride's father gave her hand in marriage.

Miss Priscilla Cutler, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor and only attendant to the bride. William Alan Richardson of New York City was the best man and the ushers group included Messrs. Richard Kimball of Pittsburgh, Allen Battershill of Lawrence, Irving Rogers of North Andover, and John Andrews of Andover.

The bride wore a gown of ivory satin with a long train and the tulle veil fell from a small lace cap. She carried gardenias and white orchids. The maid of honor wore a gown of blue chalk crepe and orange hat and carried a hand bouquet of nasturtiums in mixed shades.

Following the ceremony a large reception was held at the Andover country club. The bride is a graduate of Abbot academy, and she also attended Wellesley college, and the Katharine Gibbs school in Boston. Mr. Fuller attended Manter Hall school in Cambridge and Harvard university. He is now the director of the Fuller Funeral Service in Lawrence and Andover.

Mr. and Mrs. Fuller will be at home after August the first at 78 Main street, Andover.

Graduates from Mount Holyoke

South Hadley, June 17.—Miss Margaret Graham of 6 William street, Andover, is one of the 266 members of the senior class at Mount Holyoke college who are candidates for the B.A. degree to be given at the 95th annual Commencement exercises of the college on June 19 and 20. Fifteen graduate students, including two English, one Swiss and one Chinese girl, are also to receive their master's degrees at the same time.

Miss Graham prepared for Mount Holyoke at Abbot academy and while in college has done her major work in English literature and drama, minoring in history. She has been active in the work of the Playshop Laboratory, a group of student actors and playwrights, and has taken part in several plays. Last year she took a leading role in Junior show, was business manager of the Monthly and was chairman of publicity of the Dramatic club. For two years she belonged to her class choir and has worked on scenery committees for the Dramatic club.

A STORE OF THE PEOPLE, BY THE PEOPLE, AND FOR THE PEOPLE OF ANDOVER

Here is a store in which eighteen of the twenty employed are Andover residents.

Here is a store where business has been built upon the faith and confidence which the people of Andover have in it. Here is a store owned and operated by a fellow townsman for the people of Andover.

There is no comparison between such a store owned by a local merchant and a chain store under out-of-town management. The personal owner does his own buying, he selects just what the people of his town like in the way of fresh meats, fish, poultry, and vegetables, buying them when the season permits from local farmers, while the chain store managers have to accept what is shipped to them from out of town, be it good, fair, or poor, and he can say nothing about it.
